When hunger overtakes you, the importance of what you were doing fades until you find the satisfaction of a filled stomach. Whatever you were doing, that day's pursuit, succumbs to the simple need for sustenance. A life spent primarily on the pleasures of food and drink is meanly lived, yet no one can go without eating. Wisely, we often combine caloric intake with the good of eating together, changing the meal into a communal repast of joyful conversation. We do well when the replenishing of the body is joined with true communion with others, the one thing really worth living for.

In the first reading the Israelites, wandering in the desert, are hungry and grumbling to Moses about it. Forgetting that the Lord is with them, they fear they will starve to death in the desert, and begin to long for the lush and fertile land along the Nile River in Egypt. In the moment, they would accept a return to slavery if it meant a filled stomach each and every day. Their predicament symbolizes the spiritual choice we ourselves must make in choosing to live either for our bodies or for the Lord. We could prefer life in Egypt — that is, a life enslaved to the pursuit of being comfortably satisfied. Or we could risk embarking on a desert journey lived in obedience to God who will lead us to a life that already tastes of heaven. For in his mercy the Lord feeds his hungry people with a food unknown to them, described in the psalm as the bread of angels. He rains down from heaven manna, a word in Hebrew that perfectly captures the wonder and surprise they felt when they first discovered it: what is it?

As we heard in last week's Gospel, Jesus had just fed the multitude in a deserted place by multiplying a few loaves and fishes. When the crowd finally finds Jesus again the next day, Jesus discerns that they were looking for him because they had the satisfaction of filled bellies. Instead, they should desire the "food that endures for eternal life." As with the Israelites in the desert before God, the crowd faces the same spiritual choice before Jesus: self-satisfaction or the life that only God can give. This life, described here as eternal, and later in the chapter as life in the Son, is the gift of God and sustained by the true bread from heaven. God has authorized — set his seal upon — the Son to give this life. Jesus can give this life because God has sent him from heaven as the true living bread, the bread of life.

In this time of Eucharistic Revival, we also need to ask ourselves about our faith in Jesus as the true bread from heaven. With the Israelites let us wonder about the Eucharist, the true manna, asking: what is it? This means a renewed embrace of the Church's faith, continuous from apostolic times, that the Eucharist is truly the Body and Blood, Soul and Divinity of Jesus Christ, under the sacramental sign of bread and wine. Simply, the Eucharist is Jesus, his personal reality hidden under the sensible appearance of bread and wine. He gives himself in this sacramental way so that we might receive him precisely as our true food and drink, and thus have eternal life, life to the full. No mere symbol could possibly be the true bread of heaven, for it is not meaning or significance that sustains us eternally, but only God.

But our asking what is it about the Eucharist must also include asking, what is the Eucharist to me? Do I find in the Eucharist the life I am looking for? Do I taste heaven when I receive it? When we receive the Eucharist, do we understand what Jesus meant in saying we will never hunger or thirst again? When Jesus hands himself over to us as our daily bread, do we find fulfillment in the divine life, the divine love, contained within it? We too face the same spiritual choice: do I live for self-satisfaction, or do I long for and seek the life only God can give when He sends the true bread from heaven? Am I willing to let God lead me beyond an enslaved life of comfort and security for a desert journey to the promised land?

Only by faith can we know Jesus in the Eucharist. But do we treat the Eucharist in the same way we would the risen Jesus? Do we love the Eucharist precisely as we love Jesus, or do we regard it as "Jesus lite"? If you heard that the risen Jesus would be appearing in a certain church at a certain time, would you not rearrange your entire schedule to be there for the encounter? Yet how great is our effort to meet the very same Jesus present in the tabernacle in every Church at any time of the day? How is it permissible to ignore the Real Presence in the tabernacle when we would never do that if the risen Jesus stood in our midst? When we receive the Eucharist, let us never just consume it without encountering the person. As he gives his very self to us, let us always give ourselves to him, sharing ourselves with him who shares his very life with us.

Weekly Prayer

Saint of the week

St. Martin de Porres (1579- 1639) is the first Black saint of the Americas. He had a great love of the Eucharist and was known for caring equally for all regardless of race or status. He founded an orphanage and school and even cared for the mice and rats at his monastery.

Prayer of Hunger

Dear Jesus,
You are the one who fed the hungry. But your work doesn't only exist on the pages of an old book. You're working now. Work in us, to bring food to those in need.
Work in us, to satisfy the places we most need you.
Amen.

(PRACTICING) CATHOLIC

Food That Perishes

It's so easy to do the right thing because we want to tick all the right boxes. We want to live by the law. We want to accomplish the work of God.

Or, at least, we say that we do.

But Jesus tells us that in order to accomplish the work of God, we have to believe in the one he sent. And to believe in Christ is to be filled with the spirit of truth — to do what is right because it is right, not because we want to be filled with good feelings.

What is the difference between doing what is right because you want to be a good Christian, and doing what is right because you believe in Christ?

It's the difference between eating manna and the Eucharist. One fills your stomach and keeps you alive, and nothing more. The other satisfies a hunger you might not have even known you had, or if you did know, you called it by another name — sadness, unfulfillment, fear. One achieves a corporeal goal, and that's the end of it. The other accomplishes something invisibly, secretly, silently, and though there is physical evidence of its work all around us, you have to be shrewd to recognize it.

It's the difference between making a social media post condemning sin and enveloping a sinner (the one at our dinner table, the one on the street, the one staring back at us in the mirror) with love and concern. It's the difference between simply going to Mass and living the Gospel. It's the difference between speaking to God and saying a prayer. It's the difference between telling someone they're wrong and telling them about the truth.

There's nothing wrong doing what is right because we long for heaven, and there's nothing wrong with eating manna if you're starving. But that alone isn't enough. We must also long for the bread of heaven, the bread that gives life to the world.

"Jesus said to them, 'I am the bread of life; whoever comes to me will never hunger, and whoever believes in me will never thirst.'" — John 6:35

- Colleen Jurkiewicz Dorman

Why do we do that? Catholic Life Explained

Question:

If God knows everything we do, why do we need to go to Confession?

Answer:

Another term for the Sacrament of Confession is the Sacrament of Reconciliation. We go to this sacrament not only to confess our sins, but to be reconciled with God. Of course, this begs the question, "If I can pray to God on my own, why can't I be reconciled to God on my own?" In the seven sacraments, we recognize the importance of community. Sacraments like baptism or matrimony happen in the context of the wider church to remind us of the communal impact of our lives. We are not alone in our walk of faith!

We don't need to confess our sins in front of the whole community - thank God! But going to the Sacrament of Reconciliation is a tangible reminder that our sins affect not only ourselves and our relationship with God, but others as well. Jesus gave his Apostles authority to forgive sins in his name. Through this sacrament, we are really, truly forgiven by God Himself. We receive an outpouring of grace and strength to sin no more and our relationship with Christ and his Body, the Church, are restored.

Name of Class “ JAMES, Pears for Wise Living”

Looking for an anchor to hold you steady through the storms of life? Want the secret to find joy in the midst of trials? Interested in learning to recognize the source of discord and the way to peace? James, one of the most practical books of the Bible, is a collection of teachings on issues faced by ordinary Christians in everyday life. In James' Pearls for Wise Living, presenter Jeff Cavins shows how the teachings of James speak to those of us who feel torn between the competing demands of this world and our Faith. Meant to help a fledgling church live out its Faith in the face of persecution and a worldview opposed to the gospel, in James you'll discover wisdom you can apply to the present.

If interested, you may contact Grace McNair at grace.mcnaire@gmail.com. We will be meeting at the Parish Center on Tuesday mornings at 10. We will meet each second and fourth Tuesday each month for eleven weeks. You can contact Grace McNair at grace.mcnaire@gmail.com You can order your workbook by going to ascensionpress.com and look through the series of the Great Adventure and search for the title “James Pearls for Wise Living”. If you do not have a computer I can order for you.

Prayer

God, fill me up with love for Jesus. Amen.

Mission for the Week

If you believe in Jesus, you can look forward to heaven one day.

Read Revelation 21:3-7 with your family. Heaven will be wonderful!

Sharing the Gospel

Just one day earlier, Jesus multiplied five loaves of bread and two fish to feed over five thousand people. In today's Gospel, some of those people came looking for Jesus, hoping to get another free lunch. They didn't understand that Jesus wants all people to believe in him.

Through faith in Jesus, you can live forever. In heaven you will never be hungry or thirsty again.
